Agenda Joven

 <http://activities.cleanuptheworld.org/?2888/1647>

On December 13, Agenda Joven conducted an arts festival called "ReciclArte" on the banks of the Luján River, in the Delta del Tigre in Buenos Aires. This activity involved the performances of 50 artists to raise awareness about environmental issues, for the more than 1,000 participants who attended the festival. The objective of "ReciclArte" was to promote the need for recycling and support the intentions of the UN Climate Conference using an artistic language. Fine art projects including painting, drawing, sculpture presentations, theatre, dance and music were coupled with visual art exhibits including, photography, video and film exhibits all formed part of the festival. In addition, a song was composed to celebrate Clean Up the World in different languages. This event served to sensitise people from different walks of life about our individual and collective responsibility towards the environment.

Grupo Ecologico Sendero Ambiental

 <http://activities.cleanuptheworld.org/?632/1799>

Three clean ups were organised in July, August and October in Chos Malal, by members of Grupo Ecologico Sendero Ambiental. In total, approximately 450 volunteers took part in the activities and collected more than 2 tonnes of waste. The waste collected was either returned to compost or taken to recycling centres for processing. In addition to the clean ups, the group planted 1,500 trees, including acacias, ash and ponderosa pine species, throughout the course of the year. These activities were complimented by awareness raising events; for the 10th year running, an educational program "Centinelas del Ambiente" ("Environmental Guardians") was broadcast on radio stations in the region. An estimated 1,200 students from 12 schools participated in the environmental programs conducted by the group. Finally, approximately 60 participants took part in a triathlon, whereby participants were required to Cycle for 20 kilometers, complete a 20km rowing challenge along the river, followed by a 10 km run - held along a mountain trail. In the days prior to the triathlon a clean up was carried out on the circuit with the idea being that the triathlon was an opportunity to show people the benefits and the enjoyment that clean recreational areas can provide.

 <http://activities.cleanuptheworld.org/?4098/1642>

 <http://activities.cleanuptheworld.org/?4098/1643>

The ARMONÍA Jardín de Infantes - Escuela Primaria Bilingüe School, organised two activities during the school year that involved the participation of students, parents and the wider community. Firstly, the school worked with their local community in Palmero and the local recycling centre, la Cooperativa el Ciebo on the "Reciclar es Coopera (Recycling in Cooperation) program. Each Monday, students at the school would bring in household waste that could be recycled, such as paper, plastic and glass. The waste was then collected by the recycling centre for proper disposal. This activity was complimented by a workshop in which reusable bags were made. Titled the "Bolsas con Historia" (Bags that tell a story) project, the school donated fabric to a psychiatric hospital, so that patients could sew reusable bags for the students. The bags were then distributed to students and with the help of their families, they decorated the bags with slogans or symbols that best represented what the Environment means to them.

220 young people took part in activities organised by the Agrupación Jesuítica Santa María Gendarmería Infantil, in 2009. Both seed and tree planting activities were held in celebration of Earth Day from April 18-25. World Environment Day was observed from June 5-6, with participants adding new plants to the centre's garden. The film "Home" was also screened as part of the weekend's events. This was continued with educational workshops conducted during Clean Up the World Weekend on September 19, with all participants receiving a booklet with tips and ideas to conserve the environment. A clean up, held on October 4 at El Barrio Militar del Escuadrón 8 Alto Uruguay concluded the year's activities, with 85 bags of waste being collected.

For the second year running, the association participated in the "Proyecto Por una Ciudad Limpia" campaign, organised in support Clean Up the World. Education workshops were held in schools with the aim of raising awareness about the proper management of household waste. In addition, a project on composting and vermiculture was organised along with a ecology themed digital photography contest. In total, 141 students participated in the activities, from six different schools. As a result of these activities, students learned the concept of the "3 R's": Reduce, Reuse, Recycle in order to minimise household waste .

Member Activity Summary

- St Thomas Future Centre Trust
  - <http://activities.cleanuptheworld.org/?3888/1034>

Participating in Clean Up the World for the first time, Counterpart Caribbean @ the Future Centre organised an island wide clean up event, "Clean Up Barbados". More than 700 volunteers cleaned up 26 different sites across Barbados. Working along the coasts and gullies of the Caribbean island, volunteers were able to collect 42 tonnes of waste in a single morning. This waste was then sorted, with organisers discovering that as much as half of it was recyclable. Volunteers who participated in the event included local community groups, Scouts and Girl Guides, corporate groups and a contingent from the Barbados Defence Force.

Fundacion Mordisquitos de Vida conducted their Clean Up the World Activities with the assistance of the Metropolitan Police of Bogota, this year. Clean up's, tree planting activities and several educational talks were all carried out of part of the joint program. A particular highlight of activities was the "YIRA" project, where police worked with the group to create a local recycling service to make it easier for people to recycle waste in their community.

eRECICLAJE worked with the Nutribios organisation to promote and incorporate a waste grinding facility the "Mini Relleno Sanitario", to be used as a means of recycling waste products by grinding the waste down and converting it into bricks to be used as building materials. In September, the headquarters opened with a walk to collect waste in the "Quebrada Altavista y La Cangreja" in Medellín, an urban green zone in the centre of the city. This waste was then put through the "Mini Relleno Sanitario" process and used to create recycled waste based bricks. The community benefited by becoming aware of the necessity of waste reduction, observing different farming alternatives, wastewater purification, reforestation, restoration of eroded soils, forest protection and learning to grow and harvest healthy foods.

The Asociacion para la Integracion y la Accion Regional (ACIAR) organised a series of activities at the metropolitan park, La Sabana in San José for their participation in Clean up the World. From June 5- 6, a combined environmental education workshop and clean up was held at the park in support of World Environment Day. Approximately 400 volunteers worked together to clean the parkland over the course of the weekend. During Clean Up the World Weekend, members of ACIAR and supporting groups carried out another clean up of La Sabana Park and also of the areas - Los Hatillos and Tamarindo beach. 250 volunteers participated on this occasion and collected approximately 450 kgs of waste. As 86 kgs of the waste collected was discarded plastic bottles used for beverages, the organisers noted that an anti-litter campaign directed at visitors to the park, is needed to help stop the littering problem.

In 2009, several activities were organised support of the Clean Up the World campaign. Educational lectures and tree planting activities were conducted in cooperation with the group, "Aqualina Project" for Earth Day in April and World Environment Day in June. This was followed by the "Salva tu Pedacito" coastline clean up organised for Clean Up the World Weekend on September 19. 17 kilometres of the coastline in the Municipality of Playa was cleaned by approximately 12,000 volunteers. The day's activities attracted much media interest, with coverage of the activity being featured on television, radio, print and internet networks.

Public awareness and education campaigns focused on climate change adaptation and mitigation were the primary activities organised by Instituto de Proteccion de la Ecologia y Medio Ambiente (IPEMA), in 2009. Creating and distributing informative brochures and posters, holding competitions including; banner making, painting and poetry competitions, were some of the activities organised that gave participants the opportunity to express their thoughts on issues related to climate change. A march through the streets of Arequipa was also conducted by the group, with participants displaying their banners and posters to voice their concerns about climate change to wider community.

2009 - Participant Activities in Latin America & Caribbean

Various clean up activities were organised by the Scout Association of Peru throughout 2009. Commencing in February 2 on International World Wetlands Day, a clean up and a tree planting activity was conducted at the Ventanilla Wetlands and Villa Marshes, both located to the north of Lima. Approximately 7 tonnes of waste was collected from the clean up activities. The day also presented the opportunity for Scouts to learn of the importance of conserving wetland ecosystems. Scout groups from Ventanilla, Los Olivos, Ancón, Chorrillos, San Juan de Miraflores and Chiclayo all participated in the event. Later in the year, Scouts across the Lima district came together again to participate in Clean Up the World Weekend. As part of the weekend's activities, Scouts worked with The Miraflores Municipality, on September 19, to conduct a series of clean ups at selected municipal parks and hold an awareness raising campaign promoting healthy habits such as using bicycles as means of transport. An estimated 1,000 Scouts and members of various community groups took part in the weekend activities.

Students, teachers and family members were involved in the activities organised by la Institución Educativa N° 120 Manuel Robles Alarcón School, in Lima. Two projects - "Huertos Escolares" ("School Garden") and the "De la Chacra a la Olla" ( From the Farmhouse to the Pot) projects, continued in 2009 and achieved great results with the school winning a prize for growing extra large radishes and pumpkins in their garden. These results were achieved thanks to addition of compost to the plants from the school compost system and the use of an organic milk based fertilizer that discouraged bugs from eating the vegetables.

Local support provided by: Parents of the school and local community members.
